

A consummate real estate professional with a passion for marketing and delivering unparalleled client services, Jennifer Govberg comes from a long tradition in high-end luxury sales. Her family's businesses include a true Philadelphia icon, Govberg Jewelers, which opened on South Street in 1916. Her family has a longstanding involvement in real estate, too: the Philadelphia-based Govberg Realtors, which specializes in Temple University student housing.

Along with her Philadelphia connections -- she lived near Villanova University before moving to South Florida in 2005 -- Govberg, born and raised in Canada, maintains business affiliations in Quebec, Ontario and Canada's west coast. Widely traveled in the United States and abroad, she's cultivated international associations in China, England, Hong Kong, Korea and Japan. In addition, over the years, she's developed a special real estate niche serving NBA and NFL sports clients.

Detail oriented and an excellent negotiator, with an educational background in psychology, business, economics and marketing, Govberg's global reach, expertise and experience coalesce to the benefit of her clients in their search for the perfect home.

Govberg attended the University of Western Ontario and the University of Windsor. A Boca Raton resident, she believes that it's important to give back to her community and is active with Florida Atlantic University's Center for Autism and Related Disabilities as well as Alex's Lemonade Stand for Childhood Cancer in Philadelphia.